BOARD OF TRUSTEES

STEPS WILL BE TAKEN TO COMPLETE BROADWAY IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

The board of trustees assembled at 8:45 p. m., Friday, Nov. 29. Present: Trustees Henry, Jackson, Shaw and Woodberry. Absent: Muhleman.

The minutes of the last regular meeting of Nov. 21 and of the adjourned meeting of Nov. 26, 1918, were read and approved.

At this point C. D. Thom and Bert P. Woodward, as spokesmen for a number of citizens present, addressed the board in a request that Officer Garwood of the police force be retained in the employ of the city. Trustee Jackson made a motion, which was seconded by Trustee Henry, that the request for the retention of Officer Garwood be granted. Roll call resulted as follows: Ayes, Henry, Jackson; noes, Shaw, Woodberry; absent, Muhleman. Trustee Henry then made a motion, which was seconded by Trustee Jackson, that Officer Garwood be retained in the employ of the city until the first of January, 1919. Roll call resulted as follows: Ayes, Henry, Jackson; noes, Shaw, Woodberry; absent, Muhleman. Trustee Shaw made a motion that Officer Garwood be retained until January 1, 1919, with the understanding that at that time no application for continuing to employ him will be considered. The motion was not seconded.

An application was read from Irving H. Oliver, accompanied by an affidavit claiming exemption under the law from taxation to the extent of $1,000 valuation on account of the veteran exemption act. On motion of Trustee Jackson it was ordered that the affidavit be received as if filed in strict accordance with the law.

A similar application was received from M. M. Eshelman and Salome A. Eshelman, accompanied by an affidavit, and on motion of Trustee the request for exemption was granted and the affidavit ordered to be received as if filed in strict accordance with the law.

A letter was presented and read from the capital issues committee of Washington, D. C., in regard to the "issue of $30,000 Broadway street improvement bonds of Glendale, Cal., dated January 1, 1919, due serially January 1, 1920 to 1929, inclusive," the communication stating that after due investigation into the purpose of the issue described it is determined that the sale of said bonds is not incompatible with the nation's interest. On motion of Trustee Shaw, the city attorney was directed to look over the proceedings for the improvement of Broadway, and if found correct, to prepare a resolution directing the clerk to advertise for bids on the work.

An application was received from F. H. Reed to hunt and shoot within the city of Glendale in the Verdugo Canyon neighborhood. On motion of Trustee Henry same was granted.

A communication was read from the League of California Municipali-

BREAKAGE OF LIGHT GLOBES

Mr. Phillips of the public service department reports that 23 globes on street electroliers were broken in the last wind storm and will have to be replaced. These globes, prior to the war, could be bought for $2.50 each, which was considered a considerable sum. They now cost $6.70 each, which makes the expense to the city of this blow more than $150. Mr. Phillips declares there is no way by which they can be protected from breakage, as the force of the wind cracks them at the point where they are held by the screws which hold them in place. The notches break out, releasing the globes, which come crashing down.

INFLUENZA SITUATION

Relative to the influenza situation in Glendale, the office of Health Officer Chase reports eight new cases yesterday and no particular change in the situation. The cases are pretty well scattered, with no section of the city which is better or worse than others.

DESTROY LABELS

"TOO MUCH BOTHER" FOR HOME FOLKS TO SEND CHRISTMAS BOXES

In the overseas mail which came in yesterday Mrs. Ella W. Richardson received two letters from her son, E. Will Richardson. In the one written October 24 he said:

"We were given Red Cross orders so that by sending them home you would be able to send a small package for our Christmas present, but they wouldn't get there in time anyway, so the greater number of us destroyed them. You would go to too much bother for a small article which is useless. Have some magazines sent over, as we can get no magazines at all. But don't go to any bother, as I can get along all right. Since this letter was started we have moved farther east and toward the enemy's line. No wonder Burt had a big sheepskin coat when he was here last year, for it certainly does get cold. My work begins after midnight tonight and lasts until six in the morning. During my spare time I travel about and see some of the Huns' destructiveness."

On November 2 he writes: "Today I received a leather coat, hip boots and a pair of gloves, with other articles of clothing, and could wish for nothing more than the first two for my birthday. Now I am ready for any kind of weather. Yesterday I went up to visit with some of the men that are near the front line, taking up a sack of things they are unable to buy up there, traveling by the first truck that came along. A good many of the towns have only been occupied by the Americans for a short time, and the signs on the buildings and roads are in German. Many prisoners were being sent to the rear, and while on my post this afternoon a number of prisoners passed by. I am getting plenty to eat and everything is fine. I see quite a bit of the French soldiers. Good war accounts in all the papers, so you will have to get your information from them."

TWO STATES VOTE BONDS FOR GOOD ROADS

Building of good roads has only fairly started if we are to judge by the highway programs adopted by two eastern states which have just voted a total of $110,000,000 bonds to carry on the projects. At the general election on November 5, Pennsylvania voted to issue $50,000,000 for good roads and Illinois voted $60,000,000 for the same purpose. Pennsylvania's good roads program was opposed by the State Grange, but in Illinois there was practically no opposition.

A well organized campaign for good roads was started in Illinois many months ago. Approximately 4,800 miles of permanent highway are to be constructed in that state. Owners of automobiles are to pay the bills. Principal and interest on the bonds are to be met out of a fund to be created by automobile licenses imposed during a term of years. While the bond issues were voted in both states with the understanding that they would not be floated until after the war, this is not now likely to be a retarding factor, as it will require some time to develop plans so that actual construction can be started.—Southwest Builder & Contractor.

LIEUTENANT LATTER ENROUTE FOR HOME

Friends of Sergeant Harold Latter, who for the past two months has been attending the officers' training school at Fortress Monroe, have been advised that he has passed his examinations and received his commission as a lieutenant. As all of the officers' training schools are to be demobilized, Lieutenant Latter will have his discharge right away and expects to be home inside of a week En route he will visit relatives in New York and also spend a few days with his father, G. F. Latter, who is in the employ of the Rock Island Railroad in Kansas City.

JOHN M'BRATNEY GOES TO IRELAND FOR BRIDE

John McBratney, founder of the Irish Linen Store in this city, has gone to Ireland. It took six weeks of effort and waiting to secure the passports, but they finally arrived from Washington and Merchant John is probably on the briney deep at this moment. His plans include a visit with friends in London. From there he will go to Dublin and on to Cork, where he will spend Christmas. Belfast, seat of the Irish Linen trade, will be one of his chief stopping places, and it is reported on good authority that he will bring an Irish bride home with him.

DIVISION OF GERMAN NAVY A PEACE PROBLEM

WHILE UNITED STATES DOES NOT WISH TO SHARE, FAILURE TO PARTICIPATE WOULD DWARF NAVAL POWER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Paris, Nov. 30.—The proposition for a division of the German navy today was looming as one of the principal points in the peace conference.

The United Press is able to say on good authority that the United States does not favor the distribution of the German warships among the Allies. America still sticks by her declaration that she does not want anything from the war, and it is thought that acceptance by the United States of any part of the German navy would be contrary to her principles and would have a bad effect on world opinion. At the same time, it is apparent that a division of the German navy without the participation of the United States would have the effect of dwarfing the power of the American navy.

KAISER EXTRADITABLE TO U. S.

CHAS. T. PERRY OF AM. BAR ASS'N. SAYS IT COULD BE DONE UNDER AMERICAN-HOLLAND TREATY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

New York, Nov. 30.—Charles Thaddeus Perry, executive committeeman of the American Bar Association, today told the United Press that the kaiser is extraditable to the United States for trial on indictments returned in two western states under the American-Holland extradition treaty. He said that a clause from the treaty said that persons charged with the willful destruction of a vessel on the high seas are extraditable. Perry said this would fit the Lusitania case. He further declared that the provisions exempting political prisoners have only applied in revolutions.

Perry declared that there is plenty of chance to prove the willful intent of the kaiser, and cited as an instance of good evidence on this point former Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg's statement that "necessity knows no law."

THE RETURN OF SOLDIERS

GENERAL MARCH GIVES INFORMATION ABOUT DEMOBILIZATION ABROAD AND DISCHARGES HERE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Nov. 30.—Chief of Staff General March announced today that although the Thirty-ninth Division is the first on the list designated to return to the United States, it does not mean that it will be the first division to arrive. "Much will depend on the transportation conditions," he said. The Seventy-sixth and Eighty-Seventh Divisions are also slated to return.

General March said that 19,663 soldiers and 341 officers now overseas are slated for demobilization.

He expects that soldiers will be returning from overseas at the rate of 175,000 monthly by the end of December, and later the rate will be increased to 300,000 per month.

Six hundred and forty thousand men now in this country are now slated for discharge, and it is expected the discharges will reach the rate of 1,000 daily from each camp.

U. S. SENATORS MANIFEST RESENTMENT

PRESIDENT WILSON'S FAILURE TO NAME SENATE REPRESENTATIVE ON PEACE DELEGATION STIRS OPPOSITION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Nov. 30.—The Senate's resentment of President Wilson's failure to name a Senator on the peace delegation has resulted in Senator Cummins of Iowa drafting a resolution calling for a non-partisan committee of eight Senators to "observe the peace conference." Other Senators are planning similar measures. The resolutions will be introduced next week.

WHO SINNED?

BOYS OF GLENDALE BROUGHT BEFORE JUDGE LOWE ON BURGLARY CHARGES

After a day of cheer and Thanksgiving, after a variety of quiet celebrations of peace and rejoicings over the fruits of our glorious democracy as exemplified in our splendid, manly soldiery overseas, Glendale had a rude jolt as to some of the fruits of democracy at home. Friday afternoon four boys, ranging in age from 14 to 16 years, were brought before Judge Lowe on the charge of burglary on two separate counts, to both of which the boys confessed. Two mothers were there on behalf of their erring sons—women whose refinement and gentle breeding was evident in spite of their distress. For one boy, whose mother was too ill to appear, a little, frail old grandmother was on the ground, not trying to deny his guilt, but cherishing him and defending his helpless mother with a fierce tenderness and courage that kept her hovering around the entrance to the court room before the session and lingering afterward for a last word with Judge Lowe, speaking that word, too, with a fine diction that made one wonder what her past had been. And there was a fourth woman, only a foster-grandmother, but she did not shirk her assumed responsibilities.

The stolen goods were offered in evidence by the arresting officers—all of it apparently cigarettes and worth in total about $50. The boys made no denial; in fact their exploits seem to have been common talk among the coterie of friends who hang around the P. E. station.

The chief witness called was Ted Nichols, who told the story of breaking into a place at the Corner of Glendale and Colorado Avenues, on the night of Monday, Nov. 25, after he had finished his work of setting up pins in the bowling alley at the Elks' Club. He explained that Frank Owens had described the place to him and it was the understanding that the other boys were to participate with him in the raid, but they got weary waiting and went home, so he did the job alone and then divided the spoils with them. He said they all understood where the cigarettes came from. His account was corroborated by the other boys.

He then told of another raid made last Wednesday night on premises at Sixth and Verdugo Road, in which all the boys took part, but in which he acted as leader, entering the building himself through a side window and handing out to the other boys the stock, which was hidden by them until morning. In this tale he was also corroborated by his accomplices, John Gains, Frank Owens and Stanley Niblack, who set forth the details with a frankness that was almost eager.

Ted Nichols alone seemed troubled by his situation, and declared he had never done anything of the sort before.

Mrs. Niblack, who is a widow, testified her son had been a good boy until within the few months that he had controlled the newspaper stand at Brand and Broadway; that he had in that time become willful and disobedient and she had been worried about him, but powerless to control him. Each mother and guardian ascribed the wrong-doing of her culprit to the vicious influence of "the other boy," and the judge seemed to consider that unlicensed freedom to idle away their time at the civic center of even quiet Glendale, with plenty of opportunity to hatch such plots as their testimony revealed, under the tutelage of boys who have been repeatedly in difficulties with the police, is at the bottom of the trouble. He does not consider it creditable to Glendale that conditions are permitted to exist which are favorable to the moral corruption of either boys of girls and which are possible breeding grounds for petty criminals. He declares the P. E. corner is no fit playground or business stand for a boy in the adolescent period, and that Glendale parents should look after their children more sharply, keep a tight reign on them and know where they are at all times, day and night.

The most discouraging feature to him and others present appeared to be the joyous irresponsibility of three of the lads; and then the thought of their youth came tugging at the heart of the magistrate and the onlookers, and one wondered where the burden of guilt should lie; who sinned, these boys or their parents? And where should come in the responsibility of the community or the state to provide a substitute for parents and take such fledglings at the still tender age and make men of them? If such boys go down, are our hands clean?

After reviewing the facts in the case, the judge announced that all of the culprits would be sent to Los Angeles for a hearing before Judge Reeves of the superior court, and that new complaints would be drawn for John Gains and Frank Owens, who are wards of the probation court, with a recommendation that they be sent to Whittier.

SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

BAN LIFTED IN GLENDALE BY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT AND TRUSTEES

The Glendale public schools will all be open Monday morning at 8:45 o'clock. All pupils and teachers are expected to be present.

No pupils will be admitted who come from homes in which there are influenza cases, and any pupils who have colds or who betray any other symptoms of incipient influenza will be sent home on suspicion, and Health Officer Chase will be notified. This rule will be enforced at all subsequent sessions, and no pupils will be permitted to return after having been thus excluded without a certificate from Dr. Chase. It is the intention of the superintendent and the board of trustees to have the health officer in control of the situation at all times. DR. JAMES SHULTS,
Supt. City Schools.

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS LIBRARY SERVICE

A fine service has been instituted in connection with the Glendale Public Library by Mrs. Danford, who announces that she and her assistants stand ready to help library patrons with suggestions relative to desirable books for Christmas gifts, both juvenile and adult, also in regard to magazines, of which a list will be furnished from which a choice may be made. There is probably no task which consumes more time, if the shopper is conscientious, than the selection of Christmas books, and this offer from one who knows and who is in touch with the latest literary output should be a great boon to many people who would like to bestow gifts which have the permanent value of books, but who distrust their own judgment in selecting them.

SQUAB DINNER

Thanksgiving guests at the home of Dr. C. Stuart Steelman enjoyed a dinner of squabs raised by the doctor, with accessories appropriate to the Puritan feast. The guest list included Thomas Llewellyn, Mrs. Jennie Carson and Mrs. Mary Webster of Los Angeles. In the afternoon the party motored to the new ranch home of the doctor's brother, H. Steelman, at Universal City.

The doctor is taking great satisfaction in a new neutralizing machine for lenses with which he has just equipped his Glendale office. This wonderful machine enables him to measure any lense placed in it so that he can determine the exact prescription, even if he possesses only a section of the lense.

HOUSE PARTY AND DANCE

Misses Grace and Alice Grey Beach entertained with a delightful house party over Thanksgiving. The affair lasted from Wednesday afternoon to Thursday evening and included a dance and Thanksgiving dinner as well as a jolly good time from the hour the guests were welcomed until the good-byes were spoken. A yellow color scheme had been carried out in the decorations, and every detail for the comfort and happiness of their guests had been considered by the hostesses. The guests were Mrs. Noble Ripley, Misses Dorothy Hobbs, Irene Mauk, Lila Webster, Cecelia Lyons, Ernestine Lyons, Ardis Heisler, Alberta Heisler and Lila Shea.

On Friday evening Miss Cecelia Lyons entertained these same young ladies at a dance at her home, 119 West Lexington Drive, when a number of soldiers and sailors from nearby camps, as well as several Glendale youths, were entertained.

THANKSGIVING ON THE HILLTOP

Twenty or more young people left their warm beds in the gray dawn Thursday morning to make the ascent of Tropico Hill for the sunrise Thanksgiving service. They arrived before the sun did and had the inspiring sight of watching the rosy flush in the east melt into the white light of day, revealing the San Joaquin Valley clear to the Tehachapi Hills. Miss Nancy St. Clair conducted the religious service and Dr. P. O. Lucas led the music with his cornet. All who participated declared they were more than repaid for the effort, and would not have missed the experience for a great deal.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF PEACE

By Baldwin Hale, President of the Home Industry League of Cal.

The Home Industry League of California desires to assume the obligations of peace, now looming large, in behalf of her noble sons soon to return decorated with glory, none the less heavily burdened by their individual problems, looking to the support of themselves and their dependents amid surroundings which must for some time seem strange, although warmed by the spirit of home-coming.

In war, every state of this great United States, threw its power unreservedly behind the federal government, acting as one solidified unit for the prosecution of the world war. At the close of the war, the problem of reorganization and rehabilitation will be again divided into units representing each individual state. Each state must meet its problems in its own individual way without the mass-value and momentum that can be given to the union as a whole.

The men that return to California from abroad and the various training camps must be given immediate support—not adulation, not charity—but plain, inglorious, commonplace life-supporting jobs. Many industries have been paralyzed by lack of raw material and by the ruling of non-essential industries. These cannot be rehabilitated at once—many never will be. Our casualties have not been great, therefore practically the whole bulk of our contribution in man power will return. They must and will be provided with a means of honorable livelihood.

It behooves the loyal citizens of California to patronize its home industries. By so doing our local industries can manufacture to the maximum output, and thus provide the necessary employment for our California citizens. Furthermore, transportation must, for a considerable period following the close of hostilities, be overburdened in readjustment of tonnage which has, in the last two or three years, been concentrated at strategic points for fabrication.

Whenever you buy a product from without the state of California which could be as well and cheaply produced in this state, you have robbed your local citizens of some of the measure of their support, and placed an unnecessary burden upon transportation and the readjustment of credit balances.

COUNTY AGENTS BOOST WAR CROPS

A seven per cent increase in hog production and a twenty-five per cent increase in sugar production over the preceding year is the result of campaigns carried on this year by county agents in Minnesota. When the call came for more pork and more sugar as a war emergency, surveys were made in those sections of the state where hogs are raised and where sugar beets are grown profitably. The county agents advised the farmers to raise one more litter of pigs and to house and feed them properly. In spite of the fact that there has been a shortage of corn for feeding and that a large number of brood sows and hogs were sold and shipped to neighboring states where corn was more plentiful the increase in production was made. A larger acreage of sugar beets was also secured through the efforts of the agents.

SENTIMENT FAVORS FEDERAL GAME LAWS

The chief game warden of the Bureau of Biological survey, Department of Agriculture, reports that 24 states have passed laws conforming to the provisions of the Federal law in relation to waterfowl, and that the spirit of state legislatures, state game commissioners, sportsmen and others interested in game protection is such that it seems very likely that within two or three years every state in the union will have enacted uniform laws for the protection of migratory birds.

RAZORS

Glendale is still talking about the fine address delivered by Rev. W. E. Edmonds at the union service in the First Methodist Church Thanksgiving morning. A few extracts were published in the Evening News of Friday, but other points were made which greatly impressed the big audience assembled for worship and thanksgiving. Samson, strong man of the scriptures, was the center of his argument, with "Razors" for the sub-head. He said:

"As in the case of Samson we have indeed great power. We rejoice in our armies, our navies, our material resources, our money, our great men, but let us put the emphasis on our heritage, the principles for which our country stands. We have no room in this country for a neutral. He who is not for us is against us.

"What are some of the razors with which these modern Philistines are cutting off our locks of strength and power as a nation?

"First, the razor of Rationalism, which does not recognize God's Holy Book as the divine revelation. This is the same seed that was sown in Germany, the tares among the wheat. The Bible is God's only Revelation.

"Secondly, the razor of Neglect of Sabbath Observance. This is the razor that leads to utter destruction. We should remember the debt of gratitude we owe to the Pilgrims who went to meeting with their guns over their shoulders. The way of the Pilgrim is the way that leads to glory.

Next, Religious Bigotry, which is characterized by an intolerance of all other religious denominations but one's own.

"The public school is a moral organization and there should be a relationship between the churches and the religious feeling there. Our Pilgrim fathers put up the church and the schoolhouse at the same time, and there was a relationshp between them.

"Fourth, the razor of Philistinism, which encourages the liquor traffic. Do the 1,000 wet votes in Glendale last election mean anything to you? What about our boys who may come back drunkards?

"Fifth. This razor is like a safety blade, it cuts both ways. It is the razor of Infidelity, which accounts for things through other means than the hand of God. We must hold with jealous care the lock of salvation by grace. Good character, social service work, good Samaritanism, etc., never will save any one. The blood washed way is the only one that leads home. Our faith in Jesus Christ saves, otherwise we are lost eternally. We can put to rout these Philistine razors by faith in Jesus Christ.

"'O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good, for his mercy endureth forever.' 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'"

J. W. Dalrymple of 1001 South central Avenue died this morning.

Paul Rider, son of Rev. O. P. Rider, enjoyed a four-day furlough from camp the first of the week, but was not able to be with his family on Thanksgiving.

Mrs. S. J. Mosher and daughters, Mrs. James F. McBryde and Miss Ella D. Mosher, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. McBryde of 106-A West Broadway on Thanksgiving Day.

Dr. Julius Soper and family spent Thanksgiving with Hollywood friends whom they knew in the mission field in Japan and with whom they exchanged many pleasant reminiscences.

Miss Lulu Woolridge, teacher of domestic science in the intermediate school, went to Rialto to spend Thanksgiving with her parents. She was accompanied by her sister, who is attending high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Reid of 423 Orange Grove Avenue are the happy parents of a little daughter, born at Thornycroft, November 25, 1918, who has been named Sadie Eloise and who weighed seven pounds.

Mrs. George Whitaker has been made chairman, and Miss Coral Griffith vice chairman, of the honor roll committee for W. S. S. The two ladies have been summoned to a conference of chairmen which is to be held next Thursday at the Alexandria hotel.

The dance and card party arranged by the Glen Eyrie Chapter of the Eastern Star, which was to have taken place this evening at the Masonic Hall, has been postponed until after the holidays, when it will be given on an even more elaborate scale than was originally planned.

Mr. Downing, Western Union agent in Glendale, and Mrs. Downing, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lesueur at their ranch home in Burbank. Mrs. Gower of Burbank, another daughter of the house, was also a guest. This family reunion was also a celebration of the birthday of Captain Lesueur, whose natal day is November 12, the celebration having been postponed. The captain came to California from Missouri, where he was secretary of state for twelve years and quite an important figure in politics.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McElroy have received a letter from their son, Sergeant McElroy, dated October 21. Written, as it was, before the signing of the armistice, he could tell nothing about where he was located or his particular duties. He said he was well and everything was going along nicely. He enclosed a Christmas label and expressed some concern for fear it would not arrive in time for the sending of a Christmas box. As a matter of fact, when it failed to come before the 20th his mother obtained a label from the Red Cross, and the box is on its way.

There was a big gathering and dinner to celebrate Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Burket, 520 East Harvard Street. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goss, W. A. Goss and family, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant and family, E. A. Woelfel and family of Chicago, and the host and hostess. Dinner was served at noon and the party remained for lunch and an evening of music. Not the least part of the joy of the day came from the receipt of letters from the son of the house, Dana Burket, who was made a sergeant in October and placed in complete charge of one of the hospital offices.

Thanksgiving joy came to Mrs. Hattie Ilse in three letters from her son, Jim Henry Ilse, who is with the 411th telephone and telegraph battalion over there. The last of the letters bore date of October 23 and reported that the battalion had been moved to the rear for rest after having seen service at the front. The quiet on getting away from the roar of the big guns was quite a relief. He has sent his mother a helmet souvenir from near Verdun on the Argonne front. His letters indicated that he was well and cheerful, and, like the rest of the boys, hopefully anticipating a speedy ending of the war.

Miss Coral Griffith of 1321 Valleyview Road, who had planned for a big Thanksgiving dinner party at which her uncle and family would be guests, was greatly disappointed when those relatives were stricken with influenza and had to send their regrets. She was not alone, however, as Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck and daughter, Leone, were with her. The relatives mentioned are Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Calkins, their daughters, Pearl, Odno and Reva, and son, Ray. They are from Iowa and came overland in two automobiles and arrived about a month ago to spend the winter here, as they wished to get away from the influenza which was very prevalent in the district from which they came. They have taken a house at 102 Adams Street.

Ask Yourself

The Following Questions:

How much do I own?

After my debts are paid, how much will my estate be worth?

Will the interest on that amount support my family?

How can they make up the deficiency? What is to take the place of my earning power in the event of my death?

Can the home be maintained or will it have to be given up and the family scattered?

Will my children be compelled to leave school and go to work for small wages?

If you can answer all these questions satisfactorily, you may not need much of the splendid protection of life insurance, and you are one of the very few. Even so, however, sudden changes come, and you may need it badly in after years.

Mrs. Durkie, who is now residing in the Bert Richardson house on Mira Loma and Gardena, is down with influenza.

In the Joseph Ashton family, into which influenza penetrated about a week ago, four are now ill with it, but not very seriously. All are doing nicely.

The little girl who was born into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Thedaker, at 238 El Bonita Avenue, last week, has been named Bettie Lee Thedaker.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Parker of Louise Street visited Arcadia Thursday and were Thanksgiving guests of Dr. and Mrs. Billings. Mrs. Billings and Mrs. Parker are sisters.

Mrs. Ruby Smart, president of the City W. C. T. U., who has been quite ill of influenza, is much better and is now able to be about the house, although she is not very strong yet.

Mrs. Suel Spaulding, wife of the Park Avenue druggist, who has had quite a serious attack of influenza and has been suffering from congestion of the left lung, is considerably better.

Attorney Frank Muhleman, city trustee, was called to Sacramento this week in connection with a law case in which he has been retained. He went by auto and is expected home by Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Ingledue announces that at the opening hour of the First Methodist Sunday school tomorrow special work will be put on by Japanese children in three departments, and it is desirable that all pupils be present promptly at 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Warren Roberts of Elk Avenue has been ill of bronchitis this week, and had a rather disappointing Thanksgiving celebration in consequence, though she was permitted to eat a small helping of turkey. She is very much better and expects to be in normal health in a day or two.

At the home of Daniel Webster on Central Avenue, there was a Thanksgiving gathering and feast. The guest list included F. S. Webster, son of the host and hostess, and Mrs. Webster of Burbank, also Rev. Osman and wife of Los Angeles, pastor of the First-Day Advent Church, to which the Websters belong.

Mrs. M. A. Anderson of 107 South Isabel Street returned to Glendale Wednesday morning and enjoyed Thanksgiving with her family here. She has been in Blythe for about six weeks and reports a fine cotton crop being gathered on the Anderson ranch, the yield being about a bale and a half to the acre of the short-fibred variety. She says that Blythe is booming since cotton become a staple there and people are coming from all parts of the country to locate there.

Mrs. Wilbur Reynolds has just returned to Glendale after having spent the summer in New York, and is now looking for permanent quarters. She and Mr. Reynolds were residents on Mira Loma Avenue for a number of years, and Mr. Reynolds entered the Y. M. C. A. army service from there. He is still doing secretarial work overseas.

Mrs. A. A. Barton accompanied her husband on a business trip to Santa Barbara by auto last Saturday. They got back Wednesday afternoon and report a pleasant time in spite of the wind storm, which chiefly damaged light and telephone wires, putting them out of commission for a considerable time. At Ventura they were especially impressed with the poinsettias, which are wonderfully fine. It is an old town and the plants are great shrubs, gorgeous in their masses of color. Every resident has them and the town was fairly ablaze with the scarlet bloom.

Mrs. A. P. Knight of California Avenue was one of the fortunate mothers of Glendale who received a letter from her soldier son, Lieutenant Alfred Knight, on Thanksgiving Day. The communication was dated October 26 and indicated that he had written an earlier letter which she had not received. He declared he was well and happy, but could tell nothing of where they were or where they were going. He said his company had landed five days before and walked four miles in the rain, so they did not get very favorable first impressions, but the weather cleared and altogether changed their opinions. He said he never saw a prettier country than the part of France in which they now are, when it is not raining. The natives had given them encouragement by telling them the present weather was as cold as they would encounter there, so they were looking for warmer weather.

FOLLOWING INSTRUCTIONS

In an engineering works in the north of England, pilfering had been going on, among the men. The master spoke to the foreman, an Irishman, on the matter, telling him if he had any suspicions to search the men before leaving.

One evening Pat had occasion to do this, and while in the act of telling the men to take their coats off the master came by.

"Well, Pat, what is missing now?"

"A wheelbarrow, sir."

BULLETS DON'T STOP 'EM

(By United Press.)

Paris, Nov. 2. (By Mail.)—An American automobile just in from the front attracted a great deal of attention on the boulevards of Paris recently. It had been literally riddled by machine gun bullets, but was still in good running order and was being used by a major of artillery. The body of the machine looked like a kitchen collander. There were 120 holes through one side of the car and many of the bullets had ploughed out the other side. Whenever the automobile halted a crowd gathered and invariably the French soldiers in the crowds saluted and the civilians raised their hats when the occupants reappeared to enter the car.

"The next person who interrupts the proceedings," said the judge, sternly, "will be expelled from the court room and ordered home."

"Hooray!" cried the prisoner.

THE NEW WATCH ON THE RHINE

By Charles B. Driscoll
(Written for the United Press.)

There sounds a voice, like trumpet call,
Above the noise of thrones that fall,
"The Rhine, the Rhine, the noble Rhine!
Who guards today that silver line?"

CHORUS:
Humanity, no danger thine,
Humanity, no danger thine;
The Yanks now keep the watch, the watch on Rhine!
The Yanks now keep the watch, the watch on Rhine!

The tyranny that used to dwell
Beside the Rhine has gone to hell;
Now Yankee hands, so firm and true, true,
Plant there the old Red, White and Blue.

The Yankee soldier, head held high,
Swears here an oath that will not die;
While flow thy waters to the sea
Thy banks of tyrants shall be free!

There flows no more brave Belgian blood
To stain with shame thy rushing flood;
Along the Rhine the world now sees
The Starry Flag flung to the breeze.

Bright emblem of a world redeemed,
Emblem of dreams our fathers dreamed,
Thy stars of hope in triumph shine
Along the Rhine, the noble Rhine!

IN MEMORIAM

(By United Press.)

Isle of Islay, Scotland, Nov. 2. (By Mail.)—As a memorial to the American soldier victims of the torpedoed Tuscania and the Otranto, which went on the rocks near here, the American Red Cross is having made a granite monument, 150 feet high.

The shaft will be placed on the highest headland on this island, facing the four cemeteries where lie the Tuscania and Otranto victims.

PROFITABLE SOUVENIRS

(By United Press.)

Tokio, Nov. 2. (By Mail.)—The first American war savings stamps have just been placed on sale in Tokio and Yokahama, and are proving quite a curiosity. As the number on hand is limited, the stamps are being snapped up as souvenirs of the war.

THE SQUIRTIVE FRUIT

"So you take a cold shower every morning?"

"Yes, I eat grapefruit regularly for breakfast."

WE BET SHE EARNED IT!

Little Ethel—"Mr. Young, my sister Laura said at the table this morning that she thought that you had the prettiest mustache she ever saw."

Mr. Young—"You oughtn't to tell things you hear at the table, Ethel."

Ethel—"But she's going to give me a nickel for telling you!"

AND SUCH TALK

Wife—"I heard you talking to yourself while you were taking your bath, William. That's a bad custom."

William—"I wasn't talking to myself; I was talking to the soap. I slipped on it and fell."

NO DIFFERENCE

Officer—"Hang it! You've brought the wrong pair of boots. Can't you see one is black and the other brown?"

Raw One—"Sure, sir, but the other pair are just the same."

THE UNKNOWN HERO OF THE LUSITANIA

By F. Lee Chauvan

"The greatest hero of the Lusitania was a stoker whose body was found floating in the sea, with each arm clasping a woman, while a baby was tucked under his life belt. He had tried to save three lives, and in doing so had lost his own.——Extract.

Of all the heroic pictures in life's gallery, this is the masterpiece. The genius of art, romance, of the drama, could not conceive in the ideal a greater character than this humble hero of the real, who lost his life and found it again in the harbor of the Infinite. It was the "faith that worketh by love," the only faith that lifts up the soul to God. Ask a great artist to reproduce this picture on his canvas, and his only reply would be in his tears.

The Lusitania was sunk by a German murder-boat. The murder-boat came from the brains of the university where are sung the songs of "Old Heidelberg." The heart of the stoker came from its home in God, where is sung the anthem of eternal brotherhood. Knowledge passes away, but love endureth forever. The stoker! To the true poet there is in those two syllables a divine euphony—the music of the dead. In that deed was humanity's answered prayer. The waters could not hush it, and from out of the depths its cry for justice was flashed, in God's current, from soul to soul in all the worlds. It was heard in the highest Heaven. It stirred the denizens of the lowest planes of spiritual progress to a lofty longing to work for God and taste the sweet of immortality. The evidence of the stoker at the bar of retributive justice to the atrocity of the ages was the mighty call to action of the Universal Spirit of Right to cut to the ground the Lucifer of vaunted might "which didst weaken the nations, and wouldst exalt his throne above the stars of God." God didst strengthen the nations, and the Lucifer of earthly power was hurled from his eminence; the Crescent of the Turk fell, the Union Jack of England was raised over the Holy Sepulcher, and the flags of the Allied Nations over the black bar sinister of the German.

The lifeless form of the stoker floating in the sea, with each arm clasping a woman and a baby tucked under his life belt, its sweet smile lost in the terror of the waters, was the divine pathos of appeal that won the verdict for humanity's cause. There is no defeat in God. In the days of the first Napoleon, every morning at the muster roll of the regiment of a valorous French officer, killed in the glory of action, his name was called: "Latour D'auvergne." The senior sergeant answered to the call: "Dead on the field of honor." Then the men presented arms, the drums were softly rolled, and from the regimental band came the tender notes of a soldier's requiem. It made devotion to country an exalted ideal, a sacred obligation. In the roll call of the Infinite the only answer from the unknown hero of the Lusitania will be in the requiem of the waves and the divinity of the silence; but the deed of the known hero will be heralded from sphere to sphere, and then will be heard in a glorious response: "living in his home in God." "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me"—the spirit of the stoker.

GERMANY'S PROBLEM

Invasion by the armies of the Allies would not have been a less disastrous finale of the war for Germany than the sweep of the Red Terror, which now appears to be raging like a conflagration from city to city, and in the madness of the mob is unable to distinguish between the vestiges of royalty which it would destroy and the institutions of government which must be preserved and maintained if the nation, as distinguished from its late rulers, is to be rehabilitated.

The abdication of the kaiser and the renunciation of the lesser Hohenzollerns come too late to avert the debacle, and it remains to be seen whether or not there is the substance of responsible government left out of the wreck and ruin of war, competent to put down the frenzied revolutionists without a period of strife which shall scourge the Fatherland more severely than any penalty which might have been imposed by the victors on the battlefields of France and Belgium.

The navy was the scene of the beginning of the revolt, and it had long been threatening there, if even it had not been as active as reported. General belief is that there was less of discontent in the German army, but if the seeds had been sown there, the circumstances were favorable for their fruition. Already revolt among the garrisons in Northern Germany is reported and it should not be surprising if the western armies, in their retirement, should catch the fever.

Boys in their early teens should have some kind of wholesome work, but the work should be of such a character and under the management of such persons as will have a good influence over the boys who are just at the age of habit-forming. A statement that a boy is engaged at work when he is really not may be believed by parents who have over-confidence in their sons.

OLD CLOTHES CLINICS

To be up to date these days every community should have an old clothes clinic, the Department of Agriculture suggests. Not the amount you spend on clothes but the amount you save is the criterion by which we are judged this year. The home demonstration agents usually hold the clinics, and old garments are brought, ripped and made over by the women under their direction. This wool conserving campaign is particularly strong in Iowa.

ESTABLISHING A DEAD LINE

An old negro sergeant was drilling a company of rookies. After commanding "right dress" several times, with no good results, he pulled out a revolver and shouted:

"Niggahs, when I gives 'right dress,' I'se gwine to shoot down this here line and you niggers dress on the smoke."—Judge.

AIN'T NO USE!

You may live to be 100 years old, but what's the use if you can't tell your grandchildren that you helped to lick the kaiser?

Diner—"Look here! Isn't that a hair in the butter?"

"Waiter—"Yes, sir, a cow's hair. We always serve one with the butter to show that it isn't oleomargarine."

Mrs. Youngbride: "Did your former mistress assist you with the cooking, Bridget?"

Bridget: "Yes, ma'am; by keeping out of the kitchen.—Ex.
